

Regarding Max & Jym

TL;DR: In May of 2021, MamaMax convinced Nick Crowley and I that NightDocs (Jym) is a creep, backing this claim up with a story about him unzipping his pants to someone who later claimed to be a minor, among other stories from his months of living in Jym's home.

Every DM of mine that Max displays in his video is well after this point in time.

Jym and I privately spoke and resolved all of this a year ago.

--

I'd like to take you guys to the start of this entire ordeal.

In May of 2021, Max and I flew out to Buffalo, NY to visit Nick Crowley for a guy's trip. It was mostly unremarkable - we filmed our Twisted Tea video for my side channel, checked out Niagara Falls, and rock climbed.

One of the nights we were there, we were laying in bed at around 1am in the dark. It was one of those late night "heart-to-heart" type conversations where we just air out our thoughts. It was here where Jym was brought up by Max, and this is where the entire "Jym is a creep" narrative began. Nick can corroborate this.

"So how do ya'll feel about Jym?" - he began. By this point in my personal relationship with Jym, we had our grievances. Unfortunately diving into them in specific detail is something that I do not feel comfortable with, but the point here is this - Jym is not a saint. None of us are, and Jym had allegedly done a handful of things during our friendship that I still have a hard time believing. None of it was friendship-shattering, but it did change my perception of him. Most of this is what I shared.

Nick Crowley had been around Jym for about three days in person, and witnessed some of this behavior firsthand. Curiosity about this is what Nick mainly expressed.

And then came Max.

So, for months throughout 2020, Jym had opened his home to Max since he needed a place to stay. Compared to myself, Max had a much more intimate look into Jym's life than myself or Nick, so what he had to say felt credible. At the time, I believed Max at his word.

During his portion of the conversation, he explained how there were a myriad of issues that have added up to him about Jym, and that we should all collectively cut ties with him. This was the first instance where he, verbatim, called Jym a creep. He stated that he would constantly have to feed his daughters cereal because Jym was too busy working on videos when they were hungry. He stated that Jym had an incident on Discord where he was caught unzipping his pants for someone who, after the fact, claimed they were a minor. He claimed that him and Prox had witnessed an incident where Jym was hitting on a waitress and said that the two should "spit roast" her. He claimed that Jym whispered a sexual remark about my neighbor's wife directly to him one of the nights we all hung out at my house. As a reminder, this conversation was happening in May of 2021.

During this era of Max's channel, he was effectively known as "The" YouTube Predator Hunter. He had caused such a stir online that nearly everyone in the commentary and horror sphere at least caught wind of who he was. So again, regardless of the length of friendship as Max claims against me (I met Jym in December of 2019, Max met him in January of 2020), Max lived with Jym for months. He had access to facets of Jym's life that none of us had ever known about, giving him a façade of credibility that I mistakenly took at face value.

That night, Max convinced Nick Crowley and I that Jym Pagel was a creep, and this is where the entire narrative began. Not from myself. Not from Mutahar. It came from Max.

Every DM you see coming from me was well after this revelation. I'm making jokes and dogging on a person that I was falsely led to believe was a predator, by a friend who I mistakenly believed was credible. The fact that Max has been caught in so many lies, and even admitted to doing so to my face at Creator Clash 2 is partly why I reached out to Jym and spoke out about this a year ago. Curiously, many of the people Max manipulated and burned for years came out of hiding after I made my statement, all sharing stories about how Max manipulated them when he was done with their friendship, and bullied them into silence.

I'm embarrassed at how I allowed myself to become so close, and so duped, by a person like this.

This entire fiasco took place 3-4 years ago now, and while I'm ashamed to have DM'd what I did, it was a reactionary response to information that someone who I thought was a credible friend had drilled into my head. The DMs of mine he shares were immature and demeaning, and are not representative of my character at all. I have loads of personal and professional references that can testify about my character (that have also met Max, Jym, and Prox through me), and I can reach out to them for statements if needed.

Genuinely, I'm sorry for the remarks I made and my involvement in this. I blindly believed a lie, and I can't ever take that back.

--

To Max -

Factually, you planted this seed. Factually, you in DMs is very different than you in person. You know that you and Prox were vocal about Jym when there was no digital paper trail, and I'm confident that other creators you talked to back then can verify this.

Perhaps they'll come forward one day.

PS - here's the link to Cringe Kitchen. It was privated because I want zero association with you. And here is a link to years of ordinary DMs I had with Prox during our friendship, contrasting with the way my character was portrayed.

[CONSOLIDATED/ADDITIONAL FILE FOLDER FOR POSTERITY]